RECENT JUDICIAL DECISIONS.

A recovery of commissions by a real estate agent from both parties is held by the Supreme Court of North Carolina in the case of Lamb vs. Baxter (40 S. E. Rep. 850) to be justified where he informed them that he would charge them both, and they both agreed to pay him.

A series of garnishments instituted by a creditor to tie up the wages of a laboring man until the expiration of the time during which they are exempt and then appropriate them is held, in Rustad vs. Bishop (Minn.), 50 L. R. A. 108, to constitute a perversion of civil process which the courts cannot sanction.

A testator may select his executor, and unless the selection is made from a class of persons which by common law or statute is excluded from appointment, the Supreme Court of Errors of Connecticut, in the case of Farmers' Loan and Trust Company vs. Smith (51 Atl. Rep. 600), holds that the Probate Court cannot reject the person selected.

Where an employer undertakes to convey an injured employee to his home, and in so doing neglects to take the proper precaution to cover and protect him, in consequence of which exposure complications ensue, causing his death, the Supreme Court of Rhode Island, in the case of Bresnahan vs. Sonsdale (Co. 51 Atl. Rep. 624), holds that the employer is liable.

It is not usurious to enter into an agreement for the payment of usury after the loan has been made or the original debt contracted. It is absolutely necessary that the payment of usury must be a part of the agreement of the loan itself. There are a variety of ways by which professional money lenders are enabled to avoid the statutes of a State against usurious practices of unscrupulous men (who, however, are called "smart, shrewd business men," by entering into a contract with the borrower by which the lender indorses the negotiable instrument. In such case he becomes security on his own note, although at the time the money is supposed to be merely handled by the lender. In other words, when you apply to the lender for a loan, he very politely tells you that he hasn't any of his own money to lend, but that he has a client who is anxious to loan a certain amount, and that he is willing to indorse the note provided you will pay him, say fifty dollars, for his indorsement, and at the same time assures you that he knows where the note can be cashed. If this is the real consideration then the bonus can never be construed as a usurious transaction, although you may have your own idea of the matter. In such case the lender loans his name and credit for your consideration, and the interest on the face of the note will never exceed the legal rate. In other words, he guarantees your paper, and the law says that no man may receive any consideration whatever for his indorsement. If, however, you can show that it was his own money that actually discounted the paper, then the contract would be usurious. But the matter is so managed that it would be a most difficult thing to prove the subterfuge.

Policemen and Firemen!
Remember to vote against Charles M. Walker on election day. He is the Corporation Counsel under whose legal advice you and your families lost one month's pay this year. Beat him at the polls.

Tommy Knew What He Was Doing
"Why did you pray so loud for a bicycle, Tommy?" asked his sister.
"God isn't deaf."
"No," replied 5-year-old Tommy, "but papa can't hear very well."

Why Old Fats and Houses Don't Rent.
Real estate men and owners should not overlook the fact that the Lake View Gas Fixture Company, 283 Lincoln Avenue, Telephone North 708, refinish old chandeliers, making them equal to new at very small cost. It many cases after expending money for cleaning or papering, the chandeliers are left in the same dirty, fly-specked condition as before, and are not in keeping with the new decorations, thereby spoiling that which has been done, when at a very small cost the chandeliers, brackets, etc., can be refinished equal to new. We refinish in all the latest colors, such as polished brass, gilt, rich gilt, old copper, polished copper, oxidized copper, silver and gold.
We are also makers of a fine line of gas fixtures at prices to suit the times. Call up North 708. Our agent will call and estimate.
